NATSHIELD™ TO BE TRIALLED BY THE INTELLIGENT STERILISATION ROBOTS IN ASIAN INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT

Holista Colltech (HCT, “Holista”) wishes to announce that the Company’s Natshield™ sanitiser has been selected as a human friendly disinfectant to be deployed by autonomous sterilisation robots in Hong Kong. Holista has entered into collaboration with Eight Mercatus, a venture builder group based in Singapore, and Time Medical Limited, a leading next-generation diagnostic imaging and life science company based in Hong Kong, to run trials on Natshield™ and its deployment via Time Medical’s Intelligent Sterilisation Robots (“ISRs”).

The ISRs have been deployed in the international airport as well as more than 300 hospitals in mainland China, drawing international attention.

The ISRs can move autonomously to sterilise bacteria and viruses in the air and on object surfaces using ultraviolet (“UV”) light, 360-degree disinfection spray-heads and 0.3um air filtering. The sterilisation process can be as short as 10 minutes and has been proven to be effective solution in deactivating disease-causing agents.

Typically, hydrogen peroxide has been used as a disinfectant for spraying. However, with a growing trend to offer a chemical-free and a “human friendly disinfectant” that can be safely deployed within the vicinity of human crowds, Natshield™ provides a healthier alternative. Live swabs of surfaces will be taken after deployment by the ISRs of Natshield™ to test its efficacy at other selected international airports in the coming weeks. The trials with the leading Asian international airport are expected to be completed in about two months. If successful, the collaboration partners intend to deploy the ISRs with Natshield™ as the disinfectant in these facilities and other critical virus-prone premises such as quarantined red zones and areas with high human traffic globally.

Upon successful completion of the trials, the parties intend to work toward a formal agreement to deploy Natshield™, in the event of no success, both parties have no obligation to each other. There are no other material terms of the agreement. The economic impact of this agreement cannot be quantified.

Holista is global distributor of Natshield™ which contains the plant-based alcohol-free Path-Away® active ingredient. As announced by Holista on 20 April 2020 the Path-Away® active ingredient used in NatShield™ has been tested by a leading U.K. bio-safety laboratory to be more than 99.99% effective against the feline coronavirus, a surrogate of the COVID-19 novel coronavirus.

Path-Away® had earlier been proven as effective against a broad spectrum of bacteria, fungi, yeast and viruses. Path-Away® was developed by Global Infection Control Consultants LLC headquartered in South Carolina, U.S.A. Holista bottles and distributes the sanitiser under the NatShield™ trademark.

This announcement has been approved for release by all members of the Holista Board.
